“The Grass Roots” and “The Guess Who” to Perform at SD State Fair

Huron, S.D. — Legendary rock bands The Grass Roots and The Guess Who will perform at the South Dakota State Fair on Sunday, Sept. 6.

The Grass Roots are a highly successful rock ‘n’ roll group that has sold more than 20 million records worldwide. Many of their hits, including “Where Were You When I Needed You”, “Let’s Live for Today”, and “Midnight Confessions,” continue to get heavy rotation on oldies radio stations.

The Guess Who, whose hits include “American Woman” and “No Sugar Tonight,” are one of America’s favorite “classic rock” bands.

The Guess Who began in 1962 in Winnipeg, Canada, as Chad Allen & The Reflections. Quality Records released the group’s album in a plain white record jacket with only the question “Guess Who?” written on it. The marketing ploy worked. After selling two million copies, the band had its trademark name.

The Grass Roots and The Guess Who are sure to captivate music fans young and old.

The South Dakota State Fair will take place Sept. 3-7 in Huron. Tickets for The Grass Roots and The Guess Who are scheduled to go on sale in June. For the latest information, check the State Fair website at www.sdstatefair.com.
